

Claims Army Officer, Driven To Debt by Peggy's Craving For Jewels, Ended Own Life

By International News Service.
CHICAGO, May 31.—Peggy Upton Archibald Hopkins Joyce was stripped of the glamor of jewels, millions and romance, and held up as a sordid adventurer by her multimillionaire husband, James Stanley Joyce, in an answer filed today to Peggy's petition for $10,000 a month temporary alimony. Startling exposures of Peggy's alleged past were made by Joyce in the most voluminous answer ever prepared in a divorce case.

The most startling charge made by Joyce was the revelation of a hitherto sealed chapter in Peggy's life—the taking of his own life by an army officer in New York after an affair de couer with Peggy. Joyce charged in his bill that this army officer, driven into debt by his desire to earn money for Peggy, had committed suicide in her New York apartment.

Of almost equal interest is the charge that Peggy's "alibi letter" produced by her to prove her alleged divorce from her first husband, Everett Archibald, took place before her marriage to Philbrick Hopkins, is a false instrument. This letter was produced by Peggy during and interview granted last week to a representative of the Chicago Evening American.

Charles Deere Sham. Joyce charges that this letter, which Peggy asserted proved she had been divorced in Denver in May, 1912, is a sham. He declares that the judge who Peggy claimed signed the decree that freed her from Archibald, died six months before the date of the signing given in the letter.

Reveals Career. The story of Peggy's career as revealed by Joyce is a most remarkable annal of the rise of a penniless telephone operator to fame as a treasure-hunting adventurer. It reveals the existence of an obliging "aunt" who, Joyce charges, found one man after another to feed her exorbitant desire for money, to be cast aside for bigger game. A chapter wherein Peggy is set forth as a manicurist in a hotel in Richmond, Va., is recited. Joyce shatters Peggy's claims to histrionic merit by declaring that the $700 a week salary she received as an actress was paid, not for Peggy's talent and services, but for her personal favor to the theatrical magnate who was instrumental in obtaining her employment. This magnate, Joyce declares, also presented her with the $10,000 sable fur coat that has figured conspicuously in the controversy.

Her "Climax." Joyce apparently regards himself as the climax of Peggy's adventurous career.

Fourteen hundred thousand dollars is the total Joyce says he showed on Peggy within the few months that intervened between their marriage and the shattering of their brief romance.

Master of millions though he was, Joyce sets forth, the drain upon his resources reduced his income from a net surplus in 1919 of more than $150,000 to the staggering deficit in 1920 of $728,000.

The work sheet of Joyce's report to the government shows a list of jewels and treasure bestowed upon Peggy that reads like the inventory of a Fifth av. jeweler.

Night Revelry Of Chicago's Society Aired

Woman on Trial For Murder of Goodyear Executive.

By United Press.

CHICAGO, May 31.—Midnight frolics of Chicago's smart set were aired in court today—Mrs. Cora G. Orthwein went on trial for murder.

Mrs. Orthwein is charged with slaying Herbert P. Ziegler, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., after a night of revelry.

Jealousy because Ziegler danced with Mrs. Charlotte Lewinsky, the "kissing blonde" in the case, caused the shooting, according to the prosecution. Asst. Pros. Heth said today that "Handsome Jack" Barry alleged society gambler, would testify to this.

Mrs. Orthwein claims she shot the man with whom she had been living in Grand Rapids with relatives.

Harold Knudson of South Bend was in Granger Saturday. The Harris township graduation exercises will be held next Saturday evening at the Granger Presbyterian church.

Alva Warner of Elkhart spent Sunday with Frank Rinninger and family. Ida Rinninger is spending a few days with her grandmother, Mrs. Newman, of Elkhart.

in self defense—that he broke down the door of her apartment.

"Maybe I got a wrong start in life," Mrs. Orthwein said, just before picking of the jury was started. "Mother died when I was three and father—he did his best to keep me good. We lived in Columbus, Ohio, then."

Columbus was a great baseball town. It was there I met Jack O'Connor. I was a pitiated girl of 15 then ready to fall for anyone who looked at me. Jack looked—we were married.

"I first started to dissipate when I traveled around with him. Finally he grew abusive and I left him. It was in St. Louis that I met Ralph Orthwein. Suave, gentle, heir to millions, and owner of the St. Louis team. We were happy for several years but then a woman broke up our home. After that I dissipated more than ever."

"In Chicago I met the debonaire 'Herb' Ziegler, the good fellow of Chicago's night life. 'If we had met, untouched by life's experience, it would have been love at the first sight. As it was, ours was an illicit love. We had none of the pretty illusions when we met."

"Herb and I were so happy. He used to say to me, 'You're so feminine. You have those womanly things so well, just like my mother.'"

"Then he started to drink heavily. So did I. You know the result."

Married Quartet Decides on Plan To Trade Mates

Two Anderson Couples, All Friends, Seek Divorce Due to Love Quadrangle.

By United Press.

ANDERSON, Ind., May 31.—"Wait until we get our divorce." This is the hope—likewise the promise—of two young wives of Anderson.

They are friends. And each is in love with the other's husband.

So they're suing for divorce. Then Mrs. Gorman S. Huffman plans to become Mrs. William Muncy—and Mrs. William Muncy plans to become Mrs. Gorman S. Huffman.

Their husbands are agreeable. They're friends, too. Each wife in her petition charges abandonment.

This is the story of the strange quadrangle, as told by Mrs. Huffman's mother, Mrs. Milton Neighbor, in the presence of the two wives—and corroborated by them.

Infatuation Starts on Outing. Huffman is 30, his wife is 25. The Huffmans have been married six years. No children.

The Muncys are each 22. Married four years. Have no children.

Last September they went to Newcomerstown, O., to visit Mrs. Neighbor. The Muncys, their next door neighbors, accompanied them on the trip. The two couples went waltzing together.

"It was on this expedition that each became infatuated with the other's husband or wife," said Mrs. Neighbor.

When they returned to their cottages in Anderson, the couples visited back and forth.

Trade Is Agreed Upon. "Mrs. Huffman likes to go to ball games and moving pictures and similar amusements, while Mr. Huffman does not," said Mrs. Neighbor. "But Mr. Muncy likes the same diversions as Mrs. Huffman."

"Mrs. Muncy and Mr. Huffman, however, have similar tastes."

So, said Mrs. Neighbor, "The trade was decided upon."

The exchange, if permitted by the courts, will give Mrs. Muncy a husband eight years her senior, while Mrs. Huffman will get a husband three years her junior.

The divorce suits come up for trial within 30 days. Meanwhile the husbands work side by side in the same department of a local plant and the wives visit hour by hour in each other's home.
